THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

By way of California, per the Jane A. Falkinburg, we have received the long-looked for Message of President Pierce to the Houses of Congress. According to the New York Herald, its reading gave rise to an exciting debate. The same paper further remarks that "the black republicans are particularly indignant at the conduct of the President, and declare it the severest blow ever struck at the independence of

The Senate being assembled, Mr. Sidney Webster, private Secretary of the President, appeared, and announced the following Message

Fellow Citizens of the Senate and of the House of Representatives The constitution of the United States provides that Congress shall assemble annually on the first Monday of December, and it has been usual for the President to make no communication of a public character to the Senate and House of depresentatives until advised of their readiness to receive it. I have deferred to this usage until the close of the first month of the session, bu my convictions of duty will not permit me longer to postpone the discharge of the obligation en-joined by the constitution upon the President to give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient.

matter of congratulation that the republic is tranquilly advancing in a career of prosperity

FOREIGN RELATIONS. - CENTRAL AMERICA. Whilst relations of amity continue to exist etween the United States and all foreign powers, with some of them grave questions are depending, which may require the consideran of Congress. Of such questions the most important is that which has arisen out of the negotiations with Great Britain, in reference to Central America. the convention concluded between two governments on the 19th pril, 1850, both parties covenanted "neither will ever occupy, or fortify, or colonize, or assume or exercise any dominio over, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, the Mosquito coast or any part of Central America."

It was the undoubted understanding of the United States, in making this treaty, that all the present States of the former republic of Central America, and the entire territory of each, would thenceforth enjoy complete independence; and that both contracting parties engaged equally and to the same extent, for the present and for the future, that if either then had any claim of right in Central America, such claim and all occupation or authority under it, were unreservedly relinquished by the stipulations of the covention; and that no do-minion was thereafter to be exercised or assumed in any part of Central America, by Great Britain or the United States.

This government consented to restrictions in regard to a region of country, wherein we had specific and peculiar interests, only upon the conviction that the like restrictions were in the same sense obligatory on Great Britain. Bu for this understanding of the force and effect of the convention, it would never have been concluded by us.

this understanding on the part of the United States, that, in correspondence contemporaneous with the ratification of the convention, it was distinctly expressed, that the mutual covenants of non-occupation were not intended to apply to the British establishment at the Balize. This qualification is to be ascribed to the fact that in virtue of successive treaties with previous sovereigns of the country, Great Britain had obtained a concession of the right to cut mahogany or dye woods at the Balize, but with positive exclusion of all domain or sovereignty; and thus it confirms the natural construction and understood import of the treaty as to all the rest of the region to which the stipulations applied.

It, however, became apparent, at an early day after entering upon the discharge of my present functions, that Great Britain still continued in the exercise or assertion of large authority in all that part of Central America commonly called the Mosquito coast, and covering the entire length of the State of Nicaragua and a part of Costa Rica; that she regarded the Balize as her absolute domain, and was gradually extending its limits at the expense of the State of Honduras; and that she had formally olonized a considerable insular group known a the Bay Islands, and belonging, of right, to that

State.
All these acts or pretensions of Great Britain. the rights of the States Central America, and to the manifest tenor of her stipulations with the United States, as und by this Government, have been made the subject of negotiation through the Amerithe instructions to him on the subject, and the correspondence between him and the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, by which you will perceive that the two governments differ widely and irreconcileably as to the construction of the convention, and its effect on their respective relations to Central maintain unchanged all her previous pretensione over the Mosquito coast, and in different parts of Central America. These pretensions, as to the Mosquito coast, are founded on the assump-tion of political relation between Great Britain and the remnant of a tribe of Indians on that coast, entered into at a time when the whole country was a colonial possession of Spain. It cannot be successfully controverted that by the public law of Europe and America, no possible act of such Indians or their predecessors could confer on Great Britain any political rights.

Great Britain does not allege the assent of Spain as the origin of her claims on the Mosquito coast. She has, on the contrary, by repeated and successive treaties, renounce relinquished all pretensions of her own, and recognised the full and sovereign rights of Spair in the most unequivocal terms. Yet these pre-tensions, so without solid foundation in the beginning, and thus repeatedly abjured, were at a recent period revived by Great Britain against the Central American States, the legitimate successors to all the ancient jurisdiction of Spain in that region. They were first applied only to a defined part of the coast of Nicaragus, afterwards to the whole of its Atlantic lastly, to a part of the coast of Costa Rica; and they are now re-asserted to this extent, notwith-standing engagements to the United States.

On the eastern coast of Nicaragua and Costa Rica the interference of Great Britain though exerted at one time in the form of military occuexerted at one time in the form of military occu-pation of the port of San Juan del Norte, then in the peaceful possession of the appropriate autho-for such hostilities against a friendly State. rities of the Central American States, is now Wh presented by her as the rightful exercise of a either

But the establishment at the Ralize, now far beyond its treaty limits into the State of Honduras, and that of the Bay Islands appertaining of right to the same State, are as distinctly colonial governments as those of Jamaica or Canada, and therefore contrary to the very letter as well as the spirit of the convention with the United States, as it was at the time of ratification, and now is, understood by this government.

The interpretation which the British government, thus in assertion and act, persists in ascribing to the convention, entirely changes its character. While it holds us to all our obligations, it in a great measure releases Great Britain from those which constituted the consider ation of this government for entering into the convention. It is impossible, in my judgment, for the United States to acquiesce in such a onstruction of the respective relations of the two governments to Central America.

To a renewed call by this government upor Great Britain, to abide by, and carry into effect the stipulations of the convention according to the stepulations of the convention according to its obvious import, by withdrawing from the possession or colonisation of portions of the Central American States of Honduras, Nicaragua, and Costa Rica, the British government has at length replied. affirming that the operation of the treaty is prospective only, and did not require Great Britain to abandon or contract any possessions held by her in Central America at the date of its con-

This reply substitutes a partial issue, in the place of the general one presented by the United States. The British Government passes over the question of the rights of Great Britain, real or supposed, in Central America, and assumes that she had such rights at the date of the treaty, and that those rights comprehended the protectorship of the Mosquito Indians, the ex-tended jurisdiction and limits of the Balize, and the colony of the Bay Islands, and thereupor proceeds by implication to infer that, if the stip lation of the treaty be merely future in effect Great Britain may still continue to hold the con tested portions of Central America The United States cannot admit either the inference or the We steadily deny that, at the date o the treaty, Great Britain had any possessions there, other than the limited and peculiar esta-blishment at the Balize, and maintain that, if she had any, they were surrendered by the convention.

This government, recognizing the obligations of the treaty, has of course desired to see it executed in good faith by both parties, and in the discussion, therefore, has not looked to rights which we might assert independently of the treaty, in consideration of our geographical position, and of other circumstances which create for us relations to the Central American States different from those of any government o

The British Government, in its last commi nication, although well knowing the views of the United States, still declares that it sees no reason why a conciliatory spirit may not enable the two governments to overcome all obstacles to a satisfactory adjustment of the subject.

Assured of the correctness of the construction of the treaty constantly adhered to by this government, and resolved to insist on the right of the United States, yet actuated also by the same esire, which is avowed by the British Govern ment, to remove all causes of serious misunder-standing between two nations associated by so many ties of interest and kindred, it ha appeared to me proper not to con ider an ami-cable solution of the controversy hopeless.

There is, however, reason to apprehend that, Great Britain in the actual occupation of the disputed territories, and the treaty therefore practically null, so far as regards our rights, this international difficulty cannot long remain undetermined, without involving in danger the friendly relations, which it is the interest as well as the duty of cherish and preserve. It will afford me sincere gratification, if future efforts shall result in th success, anticipated heretofore with more confidence than the aspect of the case permits m

ENGLISH RECRUITMENT.

One other subject of discussion between the United States and Great Britain has grown out of the attempt, which the exigencies of the wa-in which she is engaged with Russia, induced her to make, to draw recruits from the United States.

It is the traditional and settled policy of the United States to maintain impartial neutrality during the wars which, from time to time, occur among the great powers of the world. Performing all the duties of neutrality towards the reof neutrality towards the respective belligerent States, we may reasonably enjoyment of its benefits. Notwithstanding the tence of such hostilities, our citizens retain the individual right to continue all their acthis relation, as the laws of war, the usage of nations, or special treaties, may impose; and it is our sovereign right that our territory and jurisdiction shall not be invaded by either of belligerent parties, for the transit of their armies, the operations of their fleets, the levy of troops for their service, the fitting out of cruisers by or against either, or any other act or incident of war. And these undeniable rights of neutrality, individual and national, the United States will under no circumstances surrender.

In pursuance of this policy, the laws of the to either of the belligerent powers articles, con-traband of war, or to take munitions of war or soldiers on board their private ships for transpor solders on board their private snips for transpor-tation; and although, in so doing, the indivi-dual citizen exposes his property or person to some of the hazards of war, his acts do not involve any breach of national neutrality, nor of themselves implicate the government. Thus, during the progress of the present war in Europe, our citizens have, without national responsibility therefore, sold gunpowder and arms to all buyers, regardless of the destination of those articles. Our merchantmen have been, and still continue to be, largely employed by Great Britain and by France, in transporting troops, provisions, and munitions of war to the principal seat of the military operations, and in bringing home their sick and wounded soldiers; but such use of our mercantile marine is not interdicted either by the international, or by our municipal law, and, therefore does not compromit our neutral relations with Russia. But our municipal law, in accordance with the law of nations, peremptorily forbids, not only foreigners, but our own citizens, to fit out, with in the limits of the United States, a vessel to ommit hostilities against any State with which

Whatever concern may have been felt by of the belligerent powers lest private tectorship over the Mosquito tribe of In- armed cruisers or other vessels, in the service of one, might be fitted out in the ports of this

And these enactments are also in strict conformity with the law of nations, which declares that no state has the right to raise troops for land or sea service in another state without its consent, and that, whether forbidden by the municipal law or not, the very attempt o do it, without such consent, is an attack on Such being the public rights and the municipal law of the United States, no solicitude on the subject was entertained by this government, when a year since the British Parliament passed an act to provide for the enlistment of foreigners in the military service of Great Britai . Nothing on the face of the act, or in its public history, indicated that the British government proposed to attempt recruitment in the United States; nor did it ever give intimation of such intention to this government. It was matter of surprise therefore, to find, subsequently, that the engage-ment of persons within the United States to proceed to Halifax, in the British province of No Scotia and there enlist in the service of Great Britain, was going on extensively, with little o Britain, was going on extensivery, with little or no disguise. Ordinary legal steps were im-mediately taken to arrest and punish parties concerned, and so put an end to acts infringing the municipal law and derogatory to our sovereignty. Meanwhile suitable representasovereignty. Meanwhile suitable representa-tions on the subject were addressed to the British government.

Thereupon it became known, by the admission of the British Government itself, that the atnated with it, or at least had its approval and sanction; but it also appeared that the public agents engaged in it had "stringent instruct to violate the municipal law of the

It is difficult to understand how it should have been supposed that troops could be raised here by Great Britain without violation of the violation of the municipal law. The unmistakeable object of the law was to prevent every such act, which, if performed, must be either in violation of the law, or in studied evasion of it, and, in either alternative, the act done would be alike injurious to the sovereignty of the United States.

In the meantime, the matter acquired additional importance, by the recruitments in the United States not being discontinued, and the disclosure of the fact that they were prosecuted upon a systematic plan devised by official au-thority; that recruiting rendezvous had been opened in our principal cities, and depots for the reception of recruits established on our reception of recruits established on our ntier; and the whole business conducted frontier; and the whole business conducted under the supervision and by the regular cooperation of British officers, civil and military, in the North American provinces, and some in

By reason of the extent and possessions. By reason of the extent and importance of the country in dispute, there has been imminent danger of collision be-tween the subjects of Great Britain and the spect of a speedy arrangement has contributed hitherto to induce on both sides forbearance, to assert by force what each claim as a right Continuance of delay on the part of the two Go-vernments to act in the matter will increase the dangers and difficulties of the controversy.

Misunderstanding exists as to the extent, character, and value of the possessory rights of the Hudson's Bay Company, and the property of the Puget's Sound Agricultural Company, reserved in our treaty with Great Britain relative to the territory of Oregon. I have reason to believe that a cession of the rights of both comthe readiest means of terminating all questions, can be obtained on seasonable terms; and, with a view to this end, I present the subject to the attention of Congress.

The colony of Newfoundland, having enacted the laws required by the treaty of the 5th of June, 1854, is now placed on the same footing, in respect to commercial intercourse with the States, as the other British North American provinces.

The commission, which that treaty contemplated for determining the rights of fishery in rivers and mouths of rivers on the coasts of the provinces, has been organised and has commenced its labours: to complete which there is needed further appropriations for the service

SOUND DUES.

In pursuance of the authority, conferred by a resolution of the Senate of the United States, passed on the 3rd of March last, notice was given to Denmark, on the 14th day of April, of the intention of this government to avail itself of the stipulation of the subsisting convention of friendship, commerce, and navigation, b-tween that Kingdom and the United States, whereby either party might, after ten years, terminate the same at the expiration of one year from the date of notice for that purpose.

The considerations which led me to call the attention of Congress to that convention, and in- m duced the Senate to adopt the resolution referred to still continue in full force. The convention con-country to depredate on the property of the other, all such fears have proved to be utterly rectly engage the United States to submit to me groundless. Our citizens have been withheld imposition of tolls on the vessels and cargoes of from any such act or purpose by good faith and hy respect for the law.

Americans passing into or from the Baltic sea, during the continuance of the treaty, yet may, he massibility, be construed as implying such during the continuance of the weary, yet may, by possibility, be construed as implying such submission. The exaction of those tolls not being justified by any principle of international law, it became the right and the duty of the > shall demand. I remain of the opinion that the United States ought not to submit to the payment of the Sound dues, not so much because of their amount, which is a secondary matter, but because it is in effect the recognition of the right of Denmark to treat one of the great maritime highways of nations as a close sea, and the navigation of it as a those who have occasion to use it.

> This Government, on a former occasion not unlike the present, signalized its determination to maintain the freedom of the seas, and of the great natural channels of Navigation. The Barbary States had, for a long time, coerced the payment of tribute from all nations whose ships frequented the Mediterranean. To the last demand of such payment made by them, the United States, although suffering less by their depredations than many other nations, returned the available successions. he explicit answer, that we preferred war to tribute, and thus opened the way to the relief of the commerce of the world from an ignoor the commerce of the world from an igno-minous tax, so long submitted to by the more powerful nations of Europe.
> If the manner of payment of the Sound dues differ from that of the tribute formerly conceded > to the Barbary States, still their exaction by Denmark has no better foundation in right. Each was, in its origin, nothing but a tax on a common natural right, extorted by those who were at that time able to obstruct the free and secure enjoyment of it, but who no longer pos sess that power.

Denmark, while resisting our assertion of the freedom of the Baltic Sound and Belts, has ind cated a readiness to make some new arrange-ment on the subject, and has invited the govern-ments interested, including the United States, to be represented in a convention, to assemble for the purpose of receiving and considering a proposition, which she intends to submit, for the capitalization of the Sound dues, and the distribution of the sum to be paid as commutarespective proportions of their maritime commerce to and from the Baltic. I have declined in behalf of the United States to accept this invitation, for the most cogent reasons. One is, that Denmark does not offer to submit to the convention the question of her right to levy the Sound dues. A second is, that, if the convention were allowed to take cognizance of that particular question, still it would not be competent to deal with the great international principle involved tion and commercial freedom, as well as that of terms of the proposition it is contemplated, that the consideration of the Sound Dues shall be commingled with, and made subordinate to a matter wholly extraneous, the balance of power among the governments of Europe.

While, however, rejecting this proposition, and insisting on the right of free transit into and from the Baltic, I have expressed to Denmark a willingness, on the part of the United States, to ing her for any advantages which commerce shall hereafter derive from expenditures made by her for the improvement and safety of the navigation of the Sound or Belta

I lay before you, herewith, sundry documents on the subject, in which my views are more fully disclosed. Should no satisfactory arrangement be soon concluded, I shall again call your attention to the subject, with recommendation of such measures as may appear to be required in order to assert and secure the rights of the United States so far as they are affected by the pretensions of Denmark.

I announce with much gratification that since the adjournment of the last Congress, the question then existing between this government and that of France, respecting the French Consul at San Franci-co, has been satisfactorily determined, and that the relations of the two govern nature.

A question also, which has been pending for several years between the United States and the Kingdom of Greece, growing out of the sequestration, by public authorities of that country, of property belonging to the present American Consul at Athens, and which had been the subject of very earnest discussion heretofore, the string of Kingdom of Greece, growing out of the sequescitizens of the United States, including their re- has recently been settled to the satisfaction of

The statements made in my last annual mes sage, respecting the anticipated receipts and exsenditures of the Treasury, have been substanti lly verified.

It appears from the report of the Secretary of the Treasury, that the receipts during the last fiscal year ending June 30, 1855, from all sources, were sixty-five millions three thousand nine hundred and thirty dollars; and that the sive of payments on account of the public debt amounted to fifty-six millions three h sixty-five thousand three hundred and ninety-three dollars. During the same period, the payments made in redemption of the public debt, including interest and premium, amounted to nine million eight hundred and forty-four thousand five hundred and twenty-eight dollars. The balance in the treasury at the beginning of the present fiscal year, July 1, 1855, was eighteen millions nine hundred and thirty-one thousand nine hundred and seventy-six dollars; the receipts for the first quarter, and the esti-mated receipts for the remaining three quarters amount, together, to sixty-seven millions nine hundred and eighteen thousand seven hundred and thirty-four dollars ; thus affording in all, the available resources of the current fiscal year the sum of eighty-six millions eight hundred and fifty-six thousand seven hundred and ter

If, to the actual expenditures of the quarter of the current fiscal year, be added the probable expenditures for the remaining three quarters, as estimated by the Secretary of the Treasury, the sum total will be seventy one million two hundred and twenty-six thousand eight hundred and forty-six dollars, thereby leaving an estimated balance in the treasury on July 1, 1856, of fifteen million six hundred and twenty-three thousand eight hundred and sixty-three dollars and forty one cents.

In the above estimated expenditures of the present fiscal year are included three million dollars. are to meet the last instalment of the ten millions provided for in the late treaty with Mexico and seven million seven hundred and fifty thou-sand dollars appropriated on account of the deb due to Texas, which two sums make an aggre gate amount of ten million seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and reduce the expendi-tures, actual or estimated, for ordinary objects of the year, to the sum of sixty million four hun dred and seventy-six thousand dollars.

The amount of the public debt, at the com mencement of the present fiscal year, was fort million five hundred and eighty-three thousan six hundred and thirty-one dollars, and, deductio being made of subsequent payments, the whole public debt of the federal government remaining at this time is less than forty million dollars.

The remnant of certain other Governme stocks, amounting to two hundred and forty three thousand dollars, referred to in my last message as outstanding, has since been paid.

Experience, gathered from events which have Experience, gathered from events which have transpired since my last annual message, has but served to confirm the opinion then expressed of the propriety of making a provision, by a retired list, for disabled officers, and for increased compensation to the officers retained on the list for active duty. All the reasons which existed when these measures were recommended on former occasions continue without modification, except so far as circumstances have given to some of them additional force.

The recommendations heretofore made for a partial reorgazination of the army, are also repartial reorgazination of the army, are also re-newed. The thorough elementary education given to those officers who commence their service with the grade of cadet qualifies them, to a considerable extent, to perform the duties of service with the grade of cadet qualities them, to a considerable extent, to perform the duties of every arm of the service; but to give the highest efficiency to artillery requires the practice and apecial study of many years; and it is not therefore believed to be advisable to maintain, in time of peace, a larger force of that arm than can be usually employed in the duties appertaining to the service of field and siege artillery. The duties of the staff in all its various branches belong to the movements of troops, and the efficiency of an army in the field would materially depend upon the ability with which those duties are discharged. It is not, as in the case of the artillery, a speciality, but requires, also, an inti-mate knowledge of the duties of an officer of the line, and it is not doubted that, to complete the education of an officer for either the line or the general staff, it is desirable that he shall have erved in both. With this view, it was recommended on a former occasion that the duties of the staff should be mainly performed by details from the line; and, with conviction of the so-vantages which would result from such a change it is again presented for the consideration of Congress.

NAVY. The report of the Secretary of the Navy, heremitted, exhibits in full the naval operations of the past year, together with the present condition of the service, and it makes suggestions of further legislation, to which your attention is invited.

The construction of the six steam frigates, for which appropriations were made by the last Congress, has proceeded in the most satisfactory manner, and with such expedition, as to warrant manner, and with such experience of the belief that they will be ready for service early in the coming spring. Important as this addition to our naval force is, it still remains inadequate to the contingent exigencies of the protection of the extensive sea coast and vast commercial interests of the United States. In view of this fact, and of the acknowledged wisdom of the policy of a gradual and systematic increase of the navy an appropriation is recomnended for the construction of six steam sloops

In regard to the steps taken in execution of of Congress to promote the efficiency of the navy, it is unnecessary for me to say mo than to express entire concurrence in the rations on that subject presented by the Secretary in his report.

POST OFFICE.

It will be perceived by the report of the Postmaster General, that the gross expenditure of the department for the last fiscal year was nine million nine hundred and sixty-eight thousand three hundred and forty-two dollars, and the gross receipts seven million three hundred and forty-two thousand one hundred and thirtysix dollars, making an excess of expenditure over receipts of two million six hundred and twenty-six thousand two hundred and six dollars; and that the cost of mail transportation during that year was six hundred and seventy-four thousand nine hundred and fifty-two dollars greater than the previous year. Much of the heavy expenditures, to which the treasury is the heavy expenditures, to which the large thus subjected, is to be ascribed to the large thus subjected by the quantity of printed matter conveyed by mails, either franked, or liable to no postage law, or to very low rates of postage compared with that charged on letters; and to the great cost of mail service on railroads and by ocean steamers. The suggestions of the Postmaster-General on the subject deserve the considera-

INTERIOR.

The report of the Secretary of the Interior will engage your attention, as well for useful sugges-tions it contains, as for the interest and import-ance of the subjects to which they refer.

The aggregate amount of public land sold during the last fiscal year, located with military for roads, and selected as swamp lands by Szaes, is twenty-four million five hundred and fiftyousand four hundred and nine acres, of which the portion sold was fifteen million seven hundred and twenty-nine thousand five hundred and twenty-four acres, yielding in receipts the sum of eleven million four hundred and eighty-five thousand three hundred and eighty dollars. In the same period of time, eight milli twenty-three thousand eight hundred and fifty-four acres have been surveyed; but, in consideration of the quantity already subject to entry, no additional tracts have been brought into market.

The peculiar relation of the general govern-ment to the District of Columbia renders it proper to commend to your care not only its material, but also its moral interests, including education, more especially in those parts of the district outside of the cities of Washington and

The commissioners appointed to revise and codify the laws of the district have made such progress in the performance of their task, as to insure its completion in the time prescribed by the Act of Congress.

Information has recently been received that the peace of the settlements in the territories of Oregon and Washington is disturbed by hostilities on the part of the Indians, with indications of extensive combinations of a hostile character among the tribes in that quarter, the more serious in their possible effect by reason of the undetermined foreign interests existing in those territories, to which your attention has already been especially invited. Efficient measures have been taken, which, it is believed, will restore quiet, and afford protection to our citizens.

In the Territory of Kansas, there have been acts prejudicial to good order, but as yet nose have occurred under circumstances to justify the interposition of the federal executive. That could only be in case of obstruction to federal law, or of organised resistance to territorial law, assuming the character of insurrec-tion, which, if it should occur, it would be my duty promptly to overcome and suppress. I cherish the hope, however, that the occurrence of any such untoward event will be prevented by the sound sense of the people of the Territory, who, by its organic law, possessing the right to determine their own domestic institutions, are entitled, while deporting themselves peacefully, to the free exercise of that right, and must be protected in the enjoyment of it, withmust be protected in the enjoyment of it, with-

The southern boundary line of this Territory has never been surveyed and established. The rapidly extending settlements in that region, and the fact that the main route between Independence, in the State of Missouri, and New Mexico, is contiguous to this line, suggest the probability that embarrassing questions of jurisdiction may consequently arise. For these and other considerations, I commend the subject to your early attention. your early attention.

CONSTITUTIONAL THEORY OF THE GOVERNMENT I have thus passed in review the general state of the Union, including such particular concerns of the federal government, whether of domestic or fereign relation, as it appeared to me desirable and useful to bring to the especial notice of Congress. Unlike the great States of Europe and Asia, and many of those of America, these United States are wasting their strength neither in foreign war nor domestic strife. Whatever of discontent or public dissatisfaction exists, is attributable to or public dissatisfaction exists, is attributable to the imperfections of human nature, or is incident to all governments, however perfect, which human wisdom can devise. Such subjects of political agitation as occupy the public mind, consists, to a great extent, of exaggeration of inevitable evils, or over zeal in social improvement, or mere imagination of grievance, having but remote connection with any of the constitu-tion of functions or duties of the Federal Goexhibit a tendency menacing to the stability of the constitution, or the integrity of the Union, and no farther, they demand the consideration of the Executive, and require to be presented by him to Congress.

Before the Thirteen Colonies became a con-

Before the Thirteen Colonies became a confederation of independent States, they were associated only by community of transatlantic origin, by geographical position, and by the mutual tie of common dependence on Great Britain. When that tie was sundered, they severally assumed the powers and rights of absolute self-government. The municipal and social institutions of each, its laws of property and of personal relation—even its political organization—were such only as each one chose to establish, wholly without interference from any other. In the such only as each one chose to establish, wholly without interference from any other. In the language of the Declaration of Independence, each State had "full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do." The several colonies differed in climate, in soil, in actual reductions in religious in soil, in natural productions, in religion, in systems of education, in legislation, and in the forms of political administration; and they continued to differ in these respects when they voluntarily allied themselves as States to carry on the war of the Revolution.

The object of that war was to disenthral the United Colonies from foreign rule, which had proved to beopressive, and to separate them permanently from the Mother Country; the political result was the foundation of a federal republic of the free white men of the colonies, constituted, as they were, in distinct and reciprocally independent State governments. As for the subject races, whether Indian or African, the wise and brave statesmen of that day being engaged in no extravagant scheme of social change, left them as they were, and thus preserved themselves and their posterity from the anarchy and the ever-recurring civil wars which have prevailed in other revolutionized European colonies of America. The object of that war was to disenthral the colonies of America.

When the confederated States found it convenient to modify the conditions of their association, by giving to the general government direct access, it some respects, to the people of the States, instead of confining it to action on the States as such, they proceeded to frame the existing constitution, adhering steadily to one guiding thought, which was, to delegate only such power as was necessary and proper to the execution of specific purposes, or, in other words, to retain as much as possible, consistently with those purposes, of the independent powers of the individual States. the independent powers of the individual States. For objects of common defence and security, they entrusted to the general government certain carefully defined functions, leaving all others as the undelegated rights of the separate others as the undelegated rights of the separate independent sovereignties.

Such is the constitutional theory of our government, the practical observance of which has carried us, and us alone, among modern republics, through nearly three generations of time, without the cost of one drop of blood shed in civil war. With freedom and concert of action it has enabled us to contend successfully on the battle field against foreign foes, has elevated the feeble colonies into powerful States, and has raised our industrial productions, and our commerce which transports them. to the level our commerce which transports them, to the level of the richest and the greatest nations of Europe.

And the admirable adaptation of our political institutions to their objects, combining local on the succession of the latter are permanently organized in associations to inflict injury on the former, by wrongful acts, which would be cause of war as between foreign powers, and only fail to be such in our system, because perpetrated setablished the practicability of a government like ours to cover a continent with confederate The Congress of the United States is, in effect, that congress of the United States is, in enect, that congress of sovereigaties which good men in the Old World have sought for but could never attain, and which imparts to America an exemption from the mutable leagues for common action, from the wars, the mutual invasions, and vague aspirations after the balance of power, which convulse from time to time the covernhich convulse from time to time the governwhich convulse from time to time use governments of Europe. Our co-operative action rests in the conditions of permanent confederation prescribed by the constitution. Our balance of the constitution of the constitution of the constitution. ower is in the separate reserved rights of the states, and their equal representation in the senate. That independent soversignty in every Benate. That independent sovereignty in ever one of the States, with its reserved rights of local self government assured to each by their co-equal power in the Senate, was the funda-mental condition of the constitution. Without it the Union would never have existed. However desirous the larger States might be to reorganise the government so as to give to their population its proportionate weight in the common counsels, hey knew it was impossible, unless they conceded to the smaller ones authority to exercise at least a negative influence on all the measures of the government, whether legislative or executive, through their equal representation in the Senate. Indeed the larger States themselves could not have failed to perceive that the same nower ways failed to perceive that the same power was equally necessary to them, for the security of their own domestic interests against the ag-gregate force of the general government. In a word the or ginal State went into this permanent eague on the agreed premises, of exerting their common strength for the defence of the whole, and of all its parts; but of utterly excluding all capability of recripocal aggression. Each all capability of recripocal aggression. Each solemnly bound itself to all the others, neither to out interference on the part of the citizens of all powers granted, and by examy of the States.

The southern boundary line of this Territory has never been surveyed and established. The rapidly extending settlements in that region, and the fact that the main route between Independence, in the State of Missouri, and New New 1 States, and those purposes of general welfare. appertaining to the local legislated of wel-fare and common defence were afterward-defined by specific enumeration, as being matters only of co-relation between the States them-selves, or between them and foreign governments, which, because of their common and general nature, could not be left to the separate ontrol of each State.

Of the circumstances of local condition, interest and rights, in which a portion of the States, constituting one great section of the Union, differed from the rest, and from another

Union, differed from the rest, and from another section, the most important was the peculiarity of a larger relative colored population in the Southern than in the Northern States.

A population of this class, held in subjection, existed in nearly all the States, but was more numerous and of more serious concernment in the South than in the North, on account of natural differences of climate and production; and it was foreseen that, for the same reasons, while this population would diminish, and sooner or later cease to exist in some States, it might increase in others. The some States, it might increase in others. The peculiar character and magnitude of this ques-tion of local rights, not in material relations only, but still more in social ones, caused it to enter into the special stipulations of the consti-

Hence, while the general government, as well by the enumerated powers granted to it, as by those not enumerated, and therefore refused to it, was forbidden to t uch this matter in this it, was forbidden to t uch this matter in this sense of attack or offence, it was placed under the general safeguard of the Union, in the sense of defence against either invasion or domestic violence, like all other local interests of the several States. Each State expressly stipulated, as well for itself as for each and all of its citizens, and every citizen of each State became solemnly bound by his allegiance to the constitution, that any person held to service or labour in one State, escaning into another, should not, in conseescaping into another, should not, in conse escaping into another, should not, in consequence of any law or regulation thereof, be discharged from such service or labour, but should be delivered up on claim of the party to whom such service or labour might be due by the laws of his State.

Thus, and thus only, by the reciprocal guaranty of all the rights of every Stare against interference on the part of another, was the present form of government established by our fathers and transmitted to us; and by no other means is it possible for it to exist. If one State crases is it possible for it to exist. If one State c-ases to respect the rights of another, and obtrusively intermeddles with its local interests if a portion of the States assume to impose their institutions on the others, or refuse to fuffi their obligations to them—we are no longer united friendly States, but distracted, hostile ones, with little capacity left of common advantage, but abundant means of reciprocal injury and mischief.

Practically, it is immaterial whether aggressive interference between the States, or deliberate refusal on the part of any one of them to comply with constitutional obligations, srise from erroneous conviction or blind prejudice, whether it be perpetrated by direction or indirection. In either case, it is full of threat and of danger to the durability of the Union.

Placed in the office of Chief Magistrate, as the executive agent of the whole country, bound to take care that the laws be faithfully executed, and specially enjoined by the constitution to give information to Congress on the state of the Union, it would be palpable neglect of duty on my part to pass over a subject like this, which, beyond all things at the present time, vitally concerns individual and pub ic security.

concerns individual and pub ic security.

It has been matter of painful regret to see States, conspicuous for their services in founding the republic, and equally sharing its advantages, disregard their constitutional obligations to it. Althought conscious of their inability to heal admitted and palpable social evils of their own, and which are completely within their jurisdiction, they engage in the offensive and hopeless undertaking of reforming the domestic institutions of other States wholly beyond their control and authority. In the vain domestic institutions of other States wholly beyond their control and authority. In the vain pursuit of ends, by them entirely unattainable, and which they may not legally attempt to compass, they peril the very existence of the constitution, and all the countless benefits which it has conferred. While the people of the Southern States confine their attention to their own affairs, not pre-uming officiously to intermeddle with the social institutions of the Northern States, too many of the inhabitants of the latter are permanently organized in associations to inflict injury on the former, by wrongful acts, which would be cause of war as between foreign powers, and only fail to be such in our system, because perpetrated

It is impossible to present this subject, as truth and the occasion require, without noticing the reiterated, but groundless allegation, that the South has persistently asserted claims and obtained advantages in the practical administradoes, only in the vague, decismatory charges of political agitators, resolves itself into misvp-prehension or misinterpretation of the principles and facts of the political organisation of the new Territories of the United States.

What is the voice of history? When the ordinance which provided for the government of ordinance which provided for the government of the territory northwest of the river Ohio, and for its eventual subdivision into new states, was adopted in the Congress of the Con-federation, it is not to be supposed that the question of future relative power, as between the States which retained, and those which did not retain. which did not retain, a numerous coloured population, escaped notice, or failed to be con-sidered. And yet the concession of that wast territory to the interests and opinions of the Northern States, a territory now the seat of five among the largest members of the Union, was, in a great measure, the act of the State of Virginia and of the South.

When Louisiana was acquired by the United States it was an acquisition not less to the North than to the South; for while it was important to the country at the mouth of the river Mississippi all capability of recripocal aggression. Each solemnly bound itself to all the others, neither to undertake, nor permit, any encroachment upon, or intermedding with, another's reserved rights.

Where it was deemed expedient, particular rights of the States were expressly guaranteed by the constitution; but, in all things beside, these rights were guarded by the

in that act were influenced by motives far above all sectional jealousies. It was, in truth, the great event, which, by completing for us the possession of the Valley of the great event, which, by completing for us the possession of the Valley of the Mississippi, with commercial access to the Gulf of Mexico, imparted unity and strength to the whole confederation, and attached together by indisciplible ties the Post and the Confederation whole confederation, and attached together by indissoluble ties the East and the West, as well as the North and the South.

As to Florida, that was but the transfer by Spain to the United States of territory on the east side of the River Mississippi, in exchange for large territory which the United States transferred to Spain on the west side of that river, as the entire diplomatic history of the transaction serves to demonstrate. Moreover, it was an acquisition demanded by the commer cial interests and the security of the whole

In the meantime, the people of the United States had grown up to a proper consciousness of their strength, and in a brief contest with France, and in the second serious war with Great Britsin, they had shaken off all which remained of undue reverence for Europe, and emerged from the atmosphere of those trans-atlantic influences which surrounded the infant republic, and had begun to turn their attention to the full and systematic development of the internal resources of the Union.

nternal resources of the Union.

Among the evanescent controversies of that period, the most conspicuous was the question of regulation by Congress of the social condition of the future States to be founded in the territory of

The ordinance for the government of the territory northwest of the river Ohio had contained a provision, which prohibited the use of servile labour therein, subject to the condition of the extradition of fugitives from service due in any other part of the United States. Subsequently other part of the United States. Subsequently to the adoption of the constitution, this provision ceased to remain as a law, for its operation as such was absolutely superseded by the constitution. But the recollection of the fact excited the zeal of social propagandism in some sections of the confederation, and, when a second State, that of Missouri, came to be formed in the territors of Luvisians, respection was made to great the second state.

that of Missouri, came to be formed in the terri-tory of Louisiana, proposition was made to ex-tend to the latter territory the restriction origin-ally applied to the country situated between the rivers Ohio and Mississippi.

Most questionable as was this proposition in all its constitutional relations, nevertheless it re-ceived the sanction of Congress, with some slight medifications of line, to save the existing rights of the intended new State. It was reluc-tantly acquiesced in by Southern States as rights of the intended new State. It was reluctantly acquiesced in by Southern States as a sucrifice to the cause of peace and of the Union, not only of the rights stipulated by the treaty of Louisiana, but of the principle of equality among the States guaranteed by the constitution. It was received by the Northern States with angry and resentful condemnation and complaint, because it did not concede all which they had exactingly demanded. Having passed through the forms of legislation, it took its place on the statute-book, standing open to its place on the statute-book, standing open to repeal, like any other act of doubtful constitutionality, subject to be pronounced null and void by the courts of law, and possessing no possible efficacy to control the rights of the States, which might thereafter be organised out of any part of the original territory of Louisiana.

In all this, if any aggression there were, an innovation upon pre-existing rights, to which pertion of the Union are they justly chargeable?

This controversy passed away with the occasion, nothing surviving it save the dormant letter of the statute.

But, long afterwards, when, by the proposed accession of the republic of Texas, the United States were to take their next step in territorial greatness, a similar contingency occurred, and became the occasion for systematised attempts became the occasion for systematised attempts to intervene in the domestic affairs of one section of the Union, in defiance of their rights as States, and of the stipulations of the constitution. These attempts assumed a practical direction, in the shape of persevering endeavours by some of the representatives in both Houses of Congress to deprive the Southern States of the supposed benefit of the provisions of the ct authorising the organization of the State of M'ssouri.

But the good sense of the people and the vital force of the constitution triumphed over sectional prejudice and the political errors of the day, and the State of Texas returned to the Union as she was, with social institutions witch her people had chosen for themselves, and with express agreement by the re-annexing act, that she should be susceptible of subdivision into a plurality of States. of subdivision into a plurality of States.

Whatever advantages the interests of the far inferior in results, as they unfolded in the progress of time, to those which sprang from previous concessions made by the South. To every thoughtful friend of the Union—to the true lovers of their country—to all who long and laboured for the full success of this obtained advantages in the practical administration of the general government, to the prejudice of the North, and in which the latter has acquiesced. That is, the States, which either promote or tolerate attacks on the rights of persons and of property in other states, to disguise their own injustice, pretend or imagine and constantly aver, that they, whose constitutional rights are thus systematically assailed, are themselves the aggressors. At the present time, this imputed aggression, resting, as it does, only in the vague, declaratory charges does not appreciate the incalculable benefits of the acquisition of Louisiana? And yet narrow views and sectional purposes would inevitably have excluded them all from the Union.

But another struggle on the same point ensued, when our victorious armies returned from Mexico, and it devolved on Congress to provide for the territories acquired by the treaty of Guadaloupe Hicalpo. The great relations of the subject had now become distinct and clear to the perception of the public mind, which appre-ciated the evils of sectional controversy upon the question of the admission of new States. In that crisis intense solicitude pervaded the nation But the patriotic impulses of the popular guided by the admonitory advice of the Father f his Country, rose superior to all the difficulties of the incorporation of a ne v empire into the Union. In the counsels of Congress there was menifested extreme antigonism of opinion and action between some representatives, who sought by the abusive and unconstitutional employment of the legislative powers of the govern-ment to interfere in the condition of the inchoate States, and to impose their own social theories upon the latter, and other represenstates, and to impose in it other represen-upon the latter, and other represen-tatives, who repelled the interposition of the general government in this re-spect, and maintained the self-constituting rights of the States. point, and were thus left to judge in that parti-cular for themselves; and the sense of constitu-tional faith proved vigorous enough in Congress not only to accomplish this primary object, but also the incidental and hardly less important one of so amending the provisions of the statute for the extradition of fugitives from service, as to place that public duty under the safeguard of the general government, and thus relieve it from obstacles raised up by the legislation of some of the States.

Vain declamation regarding the provisions of Vain declamation regarding the provisions of law for the extradition of fugitives from service with occasional episodes of frantic effort to obstruct their execution by riot and murder, continued for a brief time, to agitate certain localities. But the true principle, of leaving each State and Territory to regulate its own laws of labour according to its own sense of right and expediency, had acquired fast hold of the public judgment to such a degree that by common consent it was observed in the organization of the Territory of Washington.

sent it was observed in the organization of the Territory of Washington.

When, more recently, it became requisite to organize the Territories of Nebraska and Kansas, it was the natural and legitimate, if not the inevitable, consequence of previous events and legislation, that the same great and sound principle, which had already been applied to Utah and New Mexico, should be applied to them; that they should stand exempt from the restrictions proposed in the act relative to the State of Missouri.

These restrictions were in the estimation of These restrictions were, in the estimation of many thoughtful men, null from the beginning, unauthorized by the constitution, contrary to the treaty stipulations for the cession of Louisiana, treaty stipulations for the cession of Louisiana, and inconsistent with the equality of the States.

They had been stripped of all moral authority by persistent efforts to procure their indirect repeal through contradictory enactments. They had been practically abrogated by the legislation attending the organization of Utah, New Mexico, and Washington. If any vitality remained in them, it would have been taken away, in effect, by the new territorial acts, in the form originally proposed to the Senate at the first session of the last Congress. It was manly and ingenious, as well as patriotic and just, to do this directly and plainly, and thus relieve the statute book of an act, which might be of possible future injury, but of no possible future benefit; and the measure of its repeal was the final consummation and complete recognition of the principle, that no portion of the United States shall undertake, through assume.

CHILL. the final consummation and complete recogni-tion of the principle, that no portion of the United States shall undertake, through assump-tion of the powers of the general government, to dictate the social institutions of any other por-own way, subject only to the constitution of the United States."

The measure could not be withstood upon its merits alone. It was attacked with violence, on the false or delusive pretext that it constituted a breach of faith. Never was objection, more utterly destitute of substantial justification. When, before, was it imagined by sensible men, that a regulative or declarative statute, whether enacted ten or forty years ago is irrepealable—that an act of Congress is above the constitution? If, indeed, there were in the facts any cause to impute bad faith, it would attach to those only, who have never ceased, from the time of the enactment of the restrictive provision to the present day, to denounce and to complete it by needful supplementary legislalation; who have spared no exertion to deprive it of moral force; who have themselves again and again attempted its repeal by the enactment of incompatible provisions; and who, by the inevitable reactionary effect of their own violence on the subject, awakened the country to perception of the true constitutional principle, or any other precludes the possibility of evils in practice, disturbed as political action is liable to be by human passions. No form of Government is exempt from inconveniences; but in this case they are the result of the abuse, and not of the legitimate exercise of the powers reserved or conferred in the organisation of a territory. They are not to be charged to the contrary, they disappear before the intelligence and patriotism of the people, exerting through the ballot box their peaceful and silent but irresistible power.

If the friends of the constitution are to have another struzgle its enemies could not research another the surface and patriotism of the people, exerting through the ballot box their peaceful and silent but irresistible power.

If the friends of the constitution are to have another struggle its enemies could not present a more acceptable issue, than that of a State, whose constitution clearly embraces " a republican form of government," being excluded from the Union because its domestic institutions may not in all respects com-port with the ideas of what is wise and expedient entertained in some other State. Fresh from groundless imputations of breach of faith against others, men will commence he agitation of this new question with indubitthe agreement able violation of an express compact between the independent sovereign powers of the United States and of the republic of Texas, as well as of the older and equally solemn compacts, which assure the equality of all the States.

But, deplirable as would be such a violation of compact in itself, and it all its direct conseof compact in itself, and in all its direct consequences, that is the very least of the evils involved. When sectional agitators shall have succeeded in forcing on this issue, can their pretensions fail to be met by counter pretensions? Will not different States be compelled respectively to meet extremes with extremes? And if either extreme carry its point, what is that so far forth but dissolution of the Union? that so far forth but dissolution of the Union? If a new State, formed from the territory of the United States, be absolutely excluded from admission therein, that fact of itself constitutes the disruption of union between it and the other States. But the process of dissolution could not stop there. Would not a sectional decision produces a web union of the Union of the Union of the Union ? tional decision, producing such result by a ma-jority of votes, either Northern or Southern, of necessity drive out the oppressed and aggrieve minority, and place in presence of each other two irreconcileably hostile confederations?

It is necessary to apeak thus plainly of pro-jects, the off-spring of that sectional agitation new prevailing in some of the States, which are as impracticable as they are unconstitutional, and which, if persevered in, must and will end calamitously. It is either disunion and civil war, or it is mere angry, idle, aimless disturbance of public peace and tranquility. Disunion for what? If the passionate rage of fanaticism and partisan spirit did not force the fact upon our attention, it would be difficult to believe sion to the Northern States. It is mere delusion, and prejudice, therefore, to speak of Louisiana as an acquisition to the special interest of the South.

The patriotic and just men who participated in that act were influenced by motives far above of Americans—to trample under foot injunctions of moral and constitutional obligation—and to engage in plans of vin-dictive hostility against those who are associated with them in the enjoyment of the common heritage of our national institutions. Nor is it hostility against their fellow-citizens Nor is it hostility against their fellow-citizens of one section of the Union alone. The interests, the honor, the duty, the peace, and the prosperity of the people of all sections are equally involved and imperilled by this question. And are patriotic men in any part of the Union prepared, on such an issue, thus madly to invite all the consequences of the forfeiture of their constitutional engagements? It is impossible. The storm of phrenzy and faction must inevitably dash itself in vain against the unshaken rock of the con-titution. I shall never doubt it. I know that the Union is never doubt it. I know that the Union is stronger a thousand times than all the wild and stronger a thousand times than all the wild and chimerical schemes of social change which are generated, one after another, in the unstable minds of visionary sophists and interested agitators. I rely confidently on the patriotism of the people, on the dignity and self-respect of the States, on the wisdom of Congress, and above all, on the continued gracious favour of Almighty God, to maintain, against all enemies, whether at home or abroad, the sanctity of the constitution and the integrity of the Uni FRANKLIN PIERCE. Washington, December 31, 1855.

tion of the principle, that no portion of the United States shall undertake, through assumption of the powers of the general government, to dictate the social institutions of any other portion.

The scope and effect of the language of repeal were not left in doubt. It was declared in terms, to be "the true intent and meaning of this act, not to legislate slavery into any Territory or State, nor to exclude it therefrom, but to leave the people thereof perfectly free to form and regulate their domestic institutions in their own way, subject only to the constitution of the United States."

The measure could not be withstood upon its merits alone. It was attacked with violence, driven ashore on the Almendral beach at four p.m., where in a few hours they went entirely to pieces. These were the barque Carolina and the brig Manuel Olivares, both Chillan vessels. A water launch also went down, but has since been raised again.

The rain was abundant. Its effect on the grain crops is not yet known; but we believe there is nothing to indicate that it has caused either benefit or injury to them.

PERU AND BOLIVIA.

PERU AND BOLIVIA.

This most important we can say of these Republics is, that they now ret on in peace, though, in the former, another revolution is much to be feared. The new constitution, already so many months in debate, has not yet been confirmed by the Puruvian Convention.

The Bolivian Government appears to be rather inclined to adopt a system of concilitation in order to silence the numerous elements that mine its existence. The judicial power has been reorganized, and special committee have been appointed for the editing of the codes, and to promote likewise many local improvements in each department.

Our Peruvian exchanges contain little of interest. A serious quarrel had occurred between the Executive and the Assembly, owing to the former disputing certain acts of the latter, relative to General Castillo.

The Assembly was sustained, and the Executive being defeated, was obliged to give satisfaction. At the sailing of the steamer friendly relations had been re-established between the two powers.

Finland — Finland is in a state of feeling difficult to describe. Formerly, the people of that country had been subjected to none of the onerous charges and the burdens pressing on them since the war. They can no longer dispose of their produce in Swedish, Danish, and G-rman markets. All trade is at an end, and yet the imposts are trobled; and, moreover, they are forced to work for the State, and are obliged to lodge the Russian soldiers, who lay their hands on everything. They now feel for the first time the yoke of Russia, and are, they say, punished for having abandoned Swedem. The sympathies of the Finlanders are turned towards Swedem and the West. A greet number have demanded authorisation to go to pass the winter at Stockholm; and those who have affairs to transact in Germany have taken the way of r weden in place of St. Faterburg. The Government has adopted measures which will make them many enemies in this country. It has formally prohibited, for the winter, all temporary emigration for Sweden. No criminal trial has, for many years, excited the deep and universal interest awakened by the week. Whether the profession of the prisoner be considered, or the nature of the offences charged, the great institutions implicated, ar the startling character of the evidenit will ever be remembered as one of the most memorable of our "celebrated causes." The jury have pronounced a verdict, and that vermns the accused. It is impossible not to feel that, if the jury have not erred in their judgment, the criminal bas been treated with a leniency wholly undeserved. For what is the charge of which he is found guilty 9 If Dr. Beer had no design upon the life of the mother, there cannot be the smallest reason to suspect him of a maliciously compassing the death of the child. As a medical man, he would be justified in abandoning the infant if its destruction were necessary to save the life of the mother. It is true the medical witnesses declare that nothing in the case war ranted the destruction of the child; and it might be a fair question for judicial enquiry whether such mal-practice might not amount to the gross ignorance which the law holds culpable. The charge against Dr. Beer, however, was not for mal-practice, for being ignorant of his profession, for negligently endangering the lives committed to his care, but for attempting to destroy the child by say at once that if there can be any doubt that he intended to kill the mother, to just the same extent is their good ground for doubting that he intended to kill the mother, to just the same extent is their good ground for doubting that he acted in bad faith and with malice in the intended to kill the mother, to just the same extent is their good ground for doubting that he acted in bad faith and with malice in the intended to kill the mother, to just the same extent is their good ground for doubting that he acted in bad faith and with malice in the intended to kill the mother. Blowne all the evidence on the insurance was irrelevant—all the conversations about the policy, the false certificates, and the threats of exposure, which were submitted to the jury, were beside the question. If Dr. Beer did not mean to kill the mother there is not the smallest reason to imagine that he acted in bad faith, however ignorantly, carelessly, and bad faith, however ignorantly, carelessly, and bad faith, however ignorantly, carelessly, and he he for the minutable in the bad faith, however ignorantly, carelessly, and he he for the minutable in the bad faith, however ignorantly, carelessly, and he for the minutable in the mother there is not the smallest reason to imagine that he ac guilty? his disagreement with these two clauses, and his supports of the Constitution &ct as a whole, was by any means inconsistent. The Constitution was one thing, the two thirds clauses another. He never for a moment imagined they would obtain at once a perfection residence of the constitution with all its defects, he would not plages himself to these defects. He believed them, and he believed still, that, in spite of these defects, the Constitution was a good one. He was not afraid of change—if change was desirable, not from rash and hot impulse, but from the firree of reason, and for the beast of the country; but he did not wish to see everything in legislation depending on the passion of the hour, and while they were not proved wrong, he thought the opinions of a Legislature deliberately formed ought to be deliberately retain d. These were his sentiments when the Constitution Bill was passed, and he would ask them to bear with him whilet he read one further extract from his appeals to prove it. In the debate on the Constitution Bill he said "For mys-if, so far from thinking that a nominated Council with responsible Government will not be subject to the popular will, I feel the danger lies rather in the opposite direction. I refer to the danger, that a power which should be regarded only as the last resource of the Constitution should be resorted to on insufficient occasions—the almost unrestricted control which the representative body would possess through a majority dependent on its votes, reight at any time be squared as to destroy the balance of the State. Against this danger we should have but little security but in the good sense of the people and the wisdom of the future statesmen of the country. But to these, and such checks as the Government could interpose, I hope and believe that we may trust. I am convinced that the deep responsibility which will attend upon the exercise of the power of awamping the Upper House, and the conviction which men of eminence will feel of the importance of preserving the consituation intact, will restrain all such rash and hasty interference with the Upper House by the infusion of new members, the assent of the thurd estate here, the Governor General, would have to be obtained; and aithough his Readlenger of the power would in most cases yield to his minister, yet in so momentous a matter there can be little doubt that the most careful and annious deliberation would be exercised. I sincerely believe this mode of compelling the Upper House to any change in the Constitution, would meet with his hostility and determined opposition, as he should believe him a traitor to the interests of his country. If, however, he, in a straightforward manner, proceeded to establish the elective principle as most conducive to the good government and welfare of the solony, according to the dictates of experience, he (Mr. Manning) would not only not meet him with hostility, but would be glad to go with him in all reforms which were suggested by experience; but he would not consent to risk changes until experience had taught them what was right and needful. He hoped he had made his views on this important subject understood, as he was most anxious

Synney Philhaumonic Society.—We have been favoured with the second annual report of this excellent Society, by which it appears that the number of members and subscribers has more than doubled during the present year—evincing the correct principles on which the Society was formed. The receipts for the present over the past year were £423 14s. 61., and in consequence of the increasing property of the Society—the committee had elected trustees and insured Rhe Society's stock in the Imperial Insurance Company. The report states that the concerts during the year had been well attended, and exhibited a marked improvement on those of the previous year—acknowledging the valuable services of Madame Bishop, Mias Harris, Miss Sara Flower, Mrs. Adoock, and Madame Herwyn; and Messrs Miska Hauser, Bualanger, Herwyn, Deane, Paling, and Stanley, who gave their valuable gratuitous services to the Society. A well-merited acknowledgment of the kind assistance and close attentia of the president, the Hon. J. H. Plunkett, to whose business habits and influence much of the progress of the Society may be fairly attributed. The report also takes complimentary notice of the services of the hon. secretary, Mr. Paris; the hon treasurer, Mr. Mount-castle; the conductor, M. Steir, &c.; and in the balance-sheet of the year one of the most prominent items is the purchase of one of the finest instruments in the colonies—a concert grand Brad's pianoforte, at a cost of 200 guineas. The committee, in concluding their report, states the hope "that their efforts to carry out the objects of the society have met the approbation of its members; that they will continue to give it their untiring support, feeling assured that their reward will be exhibited in an improved taste for the most classical music." Notwithstanding the advance of the society may be fairly attributed to be intraument to be attracted into the focus of the Sydney Philharmonic devery success, we have only to refer to a list of the officers of the Society in another part of

THE appearance of the country is much improved of late in consequence of the delightful rain we have had. The price of wheat, flour, corn, &c., has been materially reduced within the last three weeks; wheat of the best sample can now be purchased at 10s. per bushel, and flour of first quality at 30s. per cwt; meat has been reduced from 4d. to 3d. per lb., and there is a prospect of people, with limited means, to live now, instead of merely existing as formerly

On Easter Tuesday a meeting of the parishioners was held at the vestry of St. John the Baptist Church, Mudgee, when a purse containing £85 was presented to our respected and worthy pastor, the R.v. James Gunther, as an Easter offering. The following gantlemen were elected as churchwardens:—Mr. Robert Lowe, by the trustees; Mr. Edward Bayley, by the pew holders; and Mr. Henry Cox, by the Rev. James Gunther.

Great excitement is occasioned in our hitherto quiet township by the coming election for a representative to serve in the new Parliament for the county of Weilington. The two candidates in the field are faul Samuel, Esq., and George Henry Cox, Esq., of Fourrundulla, near Mudges; the latter gentleman is efficielly the favourite, and most deservedly so; and I have no doubt but the polling to-morrow will prove that I am correct. To-morrow will, however, decide it. I should say Mr. Cox would be returned by a majority of at least seventy-five—in fact it is, "Lombard-street to a China orange."

The result of the poll I will send you by next post.

On Wednesday, the pleasant little village of Collector, was the scene of a joyous reunion. A large tent had been erected for the occasion in a paddock adjoining Poidevin's Inn. About 5 o'clock upwards of one hundred persons sat down to tea. Amongst the company we noticed Mrs. T. A. Murry, Mr. and Mrs. Rossi, Mrs. and Miss Sowerby, the Rev. J. Gale, and Messra. Spares, Rowsell, Waddell, and Simpaon. This tea party was in aid of the funds of the Parochial Association,—a solety recently formed for the purpose of erecting a church, schoolhouse and parsonsge in the township. The good things requisite for the entertainment were provided by the I-dies residing in the neighbourhood. After tea, Mr. Waddell was voted into the chair, and bri-fly stating the object of their assembling, called on Mr. Soares, the president of the association, to give an account of its working. Appropriate addresses were also given by the Rev. J. Gale, and Messra. Rowsell and Simpson. After a vote of thanks to the chairman, the meeting separated, greatly pl-assed with the success of the evening's entertainment.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Sia,—Finding, by your paper of the 10th instant, that Dr. Sherwin stated at the declaration of the poil for the North Riding of Cumberland, that "he had called on an elector named Drinkwater, in the district, who had promised to give him his support, if he obtained the recommendation of Mr. Fitzgerald and Mr. Martin. He obtained the required recommendations, and he wrote to ask Mr. Fitzgerald, whim he had withdrawn, to use his influence for him with Mr. Drink water. The same process was pursued in reference to a Mr. Lander."

Now, with reference to this statement of Dr. Sherwin, all I can say is this, that Mr. Fitzgerald never wrote to me on the subject of Dr. Sherwin, or his election, nor did I ever have any conv reation even with Mr. Fitzgerald relative to Dr. S. P.S.—I told Dr. Sherwin I should support Messra. Fitzgerald and Pye, and could not vote f r any one else. To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

Stu.—As a subscriber to your paper, I beg leave to lay before you a statement of a case that lately came under my observation.

At the election of the Cumberland Boroughs there was a body of Police sent up here—both horse and foot, to quell any disturbance that might occur. Now, Sir, I beg leave to inform you, that during the whole time of the election there was nothing but good will and unanimity between us, and the only disturbance that I saw during the time of election was made by the police themselves, for the first night that they were here there were two of the said police put under surveillance for their improper or unlawful interference with the liberty of the subject.

Now, Sir, as a dweller in the town of Windsor, I could not see any necessity of sending up such a body of police, and I consider that it was a great disrespect to the inhabitants by sending any police wharsoever.

I beg you will find a place for this in your respectable and widely circulated j urnsi,

I am, Sir, yours, &c.

FOR PEREMPORY SALE.

VERY ELIGIBLE HOUSEHOLD PROPERTY.
Fourteen Neatly Built Cottages, Johnson-street, Bay-street, and within one minute's walk of the Omnibus Stand, Glebe.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and C.U. have reat their Mart, 178, George-street North, at half-past 12 o'clock THIS DAY, 15th April (unless disposed of by private treaty in the interim).

Those very neat FOURTEEN COTTAGES, most substantially built of stone and brick, roofs slated, and the woodwork of the best materials.
Six contain four good rooms each.
Eight contain two rooms with kitchen each.
All occupied by regular and good tenants.
Very convaniently situated a little off Bay-street, Johnson-street, Glebe.
Property of this kind is calculated to ensure a constant tenancy, and is most desirable as an investment for capital; so compact and substantial; a neighbourhood exceedingly healthy, in the precincts of the city, and within a minute's walk of the omnibus stand, whence there is a most convenient conveyance in all directions during the day.

Terms liberal and no reserve.
Plan on view at the Rooms.

May be sold in one, two, or more lots, to meet the convenience of purchasers.

A very desirable, safe, and lucrative investment.

Four substantial Dwelling-houses, pleasantly and conveniently situated in Downshire-street, Fort-street, comm unding beaustiral and extensive views of Harbour and North Shore.

For Unreserved Sale, THIS DAY, 18th April.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have received instructions to sell by austim, at their Rooms, 178, George-street Nosth, at 12 o'clock, THIS DAY, 18th April.

All those four very convenient and well-built dwelling-houses, each containing six rooms; good yards, at the back, with a close boarded fence 5 feet 6 inches high, and well drained throughout.

The rooms are papered and fitted with dwarf cupboards, closest under the stairs, &c.

The parlours are supplied with good stoves, and the kitchens with Rus-eil's cooking apparatus; all the lower windows are protected with louvre shutters.

These very desirable residences are faithfully built, of excellent materials, slated roofs, and supplied with eaves, quit-ring, and descending pipes back and front, well inished, and carefully painted inside and out; and altogether in strict conformity with the Bull ing Act.

They are situated on a gentle declivity of about thirty yards from Fxt-street, towards the Jetty and Harbur. The portion forming the foundation of these buildings, being a rather and len fall, enabled the architect to secure three complet ato ies at the back, which command an extensive view of the Harbur and North Shore, while the front has only the appearance of two-story buildings to Downshire-street and Fort-street, a most important and improving part of the city.

CLARENCE TOWN, WILLIAMS RIVER, comprising the following buildings:

A STORE and DWELLING-HOUSE, built of brick on stone foundations, and with rusticated stone quotus, containing, ON THE GROUND FIGOR, shop, 374 z 15 feet, with double glass front, and sitted with semi-circular counter, shelves, &c.; and store at the rear 374 z 24 feet.

ON THE FIRST FLOOR, passage, parlour, bedroom, upper store, 374 z 24 feet; and a fine large verandah balcony in front. At the rear is a detached building, built of alabs with brick gables, and shingled, containing kitchen, bedroom, and sitting-room; there are also other out-offices.

These buildings are erected on allotment No. 1 of section 5, Clarence Town, having a frontage of 195 feet to the river, on which is a first-rate wharf, built on stone foundations; and also a frontage of shout 185 feet to buriver, on which is a first-rate wharf, built on stone foundations; and also a frontage of shout 185 feet to buriver, on which is a first-rate when, and in a line with the high road to Duagog. The whole is securely funced with a pig-proof fence, and a portion isid out as a gardon.

The whole of the buildings have been recently erected, and are in a thoroughfacts of repair.

This really valuable and elligible countr, property is now doing a good trade, which might easily be more than doubled by any pushing business man, and it may be remarked that the buildings are so constructed that a steam four mill could be added without destroying the general arrangement of the premises.

The navigation of the Williams River extends about 50 yards beyond this property, the depth of water alongside is about 10 feet; and appeals attention is called to the fact, that this is the only water frontage at Clarence Town that is likely to be in the market for a long time.

The premises are most substantially arceted, having been built by Mr. Lambert for his own residence, and it may be safely asserted that there which is the state of persons, where also any other infor-mation respecting this property may be obtained.

TO THE ELECTOIS OF THEUNITED PASTORAL DISTRICTS OF LACHEAN AND LOWER DARLING.—Goutlemen,—I beg again to offer myself as a candidate for your suffrages.

As a schort a time has clapsed since I last laid before you an exposition of my political opinions. I should not now have tregassed upon your attention, but for the fact that in the interval a very considerable number of names has been added to the roll of those who then retarned me is so trimiphant a namner.

Respecting then that matter which now forms the gist of every political address—the New Constitution—I stated to you beging the papoving generally of its principles, I was prepared to give it a fair trial. I have since seen no reason to after my views on this head, but, as a matter of course, should it, when properly tested, be found in any point defective, I shall be ready, as a man of common sense, to lend my aid to correct such error; it is but right, however, for me here to say that in one especial particular it is interly impossible that I can ever consent to any alteration or molification, and that is, the proposed distribution of the representation. Gentlemen,—there is in this colony no manufaction, and that is, the proposed distribution of the representation. Gentlemen,—there is in this colony no manufaction and that is, the profited si, the when the manufaction and that is, the profited si, the when the mental working the expenses attendant upon their own potention, external and internal, their own becomitor the largement have never been concealed. Against any such change then in the present representative scheme, believing that it would be fraught with ruin to those portions of the colony in which I feel most interest, I steadfactly set my face.

I believe that the progress of the colony at large depends in a great measure on the facility with which land may be obtained, that such facility has not hitherto existed, at least in a proper degree, those who have condescended to empire into the matter are well aware is to be attributed to the inchiciency of the Survey Department, and not, as has been alleged, for the sake of getting up a cry to the squating system. Important reforms are new taking place in that Department, but I will at all times keep a gualum system. Important reforms are new taking place in that Department, but I will at all times keep a gualum system of sedling crown lands by accion. I would give to all the right of selection at the upset price.

The possession of land, however, in the distant interior will benefit the holder but little, hardworking though he be, unless cheap and rapid means of transit be afforded for the articles he may produce; and to this end I promise to dail that in me lies to promote the extension of railways throughout the length and breadth of the colony.

Feeling satisfied that the religious establishments of the country can never be supported by private subscription atome—that left to the tender mercies of Voluntarysim: the ministers of the various denominations must starve, I am an advocate for continued State support for Beclesiastical purposes, such support to be from time to time increased as the extremelies of the country may require.

Deeply interested in the cause of Education, I shall be ready to give my vote for the support of both prevent recognised systems, frusting most sincerely that before long some scheme may be devised for their condition. In short, I shall be prepared in fact, for any degree of retrenchment that may be proposed, it being far letter in we opino emory,

I remain, gentlemen, your obliged servant,
